DATA CLEANING & PREPARATION

Accurate business insights depend on clean and reliable data. So creating a standardized and analysis-ready customer dataset is very important.

Problem Identified	Cleaning Performed
Duplicate customer records were found	Removed duplicate rows to maintain unique customer records
Missing values in Full_Name column	Filled or corrected missing customer names
Missing values in District column	Filled missing district values
Missing values in Customer_Segment column	Replaced missing customer segment entries
Missing values in Savings_Balance column	Filled missing savings balance values
Missing values in Monthly_Deposit_Avg column	Filled missing monthly deposit average values
Missing values in Has_Loan column	Updated missing loan status values
Many missing values in Loan_Type column	Replaced missing values with “Not Applicable”
Many missing values in Loan_Amount , Loan_Tenure_Months, Monthly_Repayment_Amount, Outstanding_Loan_Balance, FD_Amount columns	Replaced missing values with 0
Missing values in Loan_Repayment_Status column	Replaced missing values with “Unknown”
Missing values in Referral_Source column	Filled missing values with suitable placeholders
Inconsistent date formats	Standardized all date columns into a consistent format
Inconsistent numeric formats	Standardized numeric values and formats
Blank and inconsistent text entries	Standardized text and categorical values
Dataset contained incomplete and inconsistent data	Cleaned and prepared dataset for analysis and reporting

CUSTOMER SAVINGS BEHAVIOUR

Key Findings

1. Customer Segment Insights

- Premium customers held the highest average savings balances.
- Starter and unknown segments maintained significantly lower balances.

2. Urban vs Rural

- Urban customers demonstrated materially higher savings levels.
- Rural customers showed lower average balances but wider customer reach.

3. Provincial Performance

- Western Province contributed the highest total savings.
- Several provinces showed low deposit penetration and growth potential.

AGE BEHAVIOUR & CUSTOMER HEALTH

56+
Retirement phase

46–55 Wealth
accumulation

36–45
Peak earning years

26–35 Income
growth phase

18–25
Early earners

Key Findings

- The 36–55 age group held the highest total savings balances.
- Younger customers had lower balances but stronger digital adoption.

Savings Behavior According to Active vs Draining Customers

- Active savers represent financially healthy customers.
- Draining customers may indicate retention or liquidity risks.

Business Insight

- The customer base remains generally healthy if active savers dominate the portfolio.

LOAN PORTFOLIO & RISK ANALYSIS

Loan Penetration Analysis

Metric	Value
Loan Penetration Rate	43.6%
Customers with Loans	218

Segment Findings

- Premium and Regular customers showed the highest loan penetration.
- Starter customers showed lower borrowing activity.

STRATEGIC RECOMMENDATIONS

Recommendation 1 – Increase Investment in Digital & Referral Acquisition

Section	Details
Recommendation	Increase investment in Digital & Referral acquisition channels
Evidence	• Higher savings balances • Lower default behavior • Better customer engagement
Recommended Actions	• Expand referral campaigns • Increase app engagement initiatives
Expected Benefit	Higher-value customers with stronger retention

Recommendation 2 – Strengthen Loan Risk Monitoring

Section	Details
Recommendation	Strengthen loan risk monitoring and borrower management
Evidence	• 128 customers exceeded a Debt-to-Savings ratio of 1.0 • High-risk exposure reached LKR 131.8 Mn
Recommended Actions	• Implement early-warning systems • Improve credit scoring • Monitor high-risk borrowers monthly
Expected Benefit	Reduced defaults and stronger portfolio quality

LIMITATIONS & FINAL CONCLUSION

❖ Key Limitations

- Data quality assumptions made during cleaning may affect accuracy of some insights.
- The dataset size was limited to 500 customers, which may not fully represent the entire customer base.
- Correlation does not imply causation, especially in digital engagement analysis.
- External credit and economic data were unavailable, limiting deeper risk analysis.

▪ Additional Data Requested

- Credit bureau information for improved credit risk assessment.
- Transaction-level customer behaviour data for deeper behavioural and retention analysis.

▪ Final Conclusion

- Strong savings concentration was observed among premium customers.
- Mobile and digitally engaged customers demonstrated higher customer value.
- Significant cross-sell opportunities exist among savings-only customers.
- Elevated loan risk exposure requires proactive monitoring and stronger credit controls.
